

PRIVATE PUBLIC GALLERY PRESS RELEASE
December 9, 2021 Hudson, New York, USA

PRIVATE PUBLIC GALLERY AND CURATOR CHRISTOPHER FREEMAN ARE PLEASED TO PRESENT:
“I REMEMBER... REMEMBER?”

Location:
530 Columbia Street, Hudson, NY 12534

Dates:
December 18th, 2021 to February 3rd, 2022

Opening Reception:
December 18th from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Private Public Gallery and Christopher Freeman are pleased to present:
“I Remember... Remember?” an exhibition of new work by artists from the gallery’s program at our 530 Columbia Street location in Hudson, New York.

“I Remember... Remember?” is the second exhibition for this new gallery, which represents significant contemporary work in the Hudson Valley area.

“This show is packed with powerhouse painters whose work has the extraordinary quality of sharing, like a subconscious memory transplant.” Chris Freeman

Within all the work presented in this exhibition, there is the sense that these artists are using memory as a framework. Some work with the immediate past, and some with memories from a lifetime ago, but that framework is visceral and as strong as a windstorm. All works are heavily emotional, with spiritually charged sensibilities resulting from a new movement of how to approach what is left of what exists. This work is not sentimental, the work unrestrained.

Sarah Conrad-Ferm
James Greco
Joel Longenecker
Todd B Richmond
Michael Rodriguez
Alexander Ross
Howard Schwartzberg

Located at 530 Columbia Street in Hudson, NY, Private Public Gallery is an art gallery set inside a barn within a compound of Freemans homes, located in the center of Hudson, NY.

Private Public Gallery is open by appointment only. To view “I remember... Remember?” after the opening, one can set up an appointment by just calling or texting ahead to (212) 286-0075.

Chris Freeman is available for interviews.
Please call Laura Powers at Private Public Gallery to set up an interview 917 463 3692